HOSPICE OF ORLEANS WELCOMES NEW DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR

Hospice of Orleans is pleased to announce that Clarendon resident Nyla Gaylord has joined the team as Director of Development and Community Relations.

An Orleans County native, Ms. Gaylord has extensive experience in grant writing, fundraising, program development and not-for-profit leadership. Nyla graduated from Holley High School and earned a Bachelor's Degree in English Literature and Writing from Houghton College in Houghton, NY and Master's Degree in Liberal Studies with a concentration in Public Administration from SUNY Brockport. After a number of years working for organizations that provide services to people with disabilities, she returned to school and completed a Certificate of Advanced Studies in Disability Studies at Syracuse University.

Ms. Gaylord has been an active member of the Orleans County community. She was a foster parent for many years and is currently a member of the Clarendon Historical Society, assisting with grant writing efforts.

After commuting to jobs in Rochester for more than thirty years, Ms. Gaylord is delighted to be working locally for such an important cause. "I'm very committed to rallying community support to ensure that Hospice of Orleans continues to be an independent local organization, not part of a large health system. Hospice services were there for my loved ones to help them reclaim control over their life and remain surrounded by family, friends and community as they faced an incurable illness. I look forward to helping ensure that Hospice services continue to be available locally for anyone who requests them."

Ms. Gaylord's first public appearance for Hospice will be Saturday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. at the Hoag Library. In celebration of the 20th Anniversary of Hospice of Orleans, Guest Speaker Dr. Chris Kerr will speak on "Hospice Care, Palliative Care and Advanced Directives." This is an opportunity to come out and meet Ms. Gaylord and others from the Hospice team to experience what Hospice has to offer- from music therapy to massage therapy and all the programs in between, including an overview of what palliative care is. This event is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served. ~

HILL TALK

The Never-miss Holiday Gift Catalog.

As I write this, parents and grand parents are wracking their brains trying to pick the very best gift for little Mary or Johnny. While they make that important decision, children are being bombarded with TV ads, store displays, and peer pressure, all touting the presents that would be the most desirable to have.

Experience has shown me that those gifts thrill the recipient only temporarily. They get worn out, become boring, break, or become obsolete all too soon. Some parents are amazed to see their children playing with the boxes that the “gift of all gifts” came in!

What if I told you that there is an outstanding catalog available to help us out? It is a never-miss listing of those special gifts that never get old, no matter how many years go by. It lists the presents children will keep with them to the end of their lives and although they don’t come with warranties, they have a totally unconditional lifetime guarantee and never need batteries!

That special catalog is our memories and if you had any enjoyable holiday experiences at all as a child, they will be listed in it. However, if you check out that list hoping to find out what to buy at Wal-Mart or Toys are Us, you will be disappointed because only a few of your memories have to do with material gifts.

Rather they are almost all about the happenings that revolve around the holidays—those “togetherness” things. Decorating the home and the tree, Baking cookies with Mom or Grandma, or the Christmas Eve get-togethers might be on the list. Memories can be of the special holiday dinners attended by relatives and friends or the wonderful kitchen smells that years later are still in our heads.

Those rides we took to see the Christmas lights while singing “Rudolf the Red-nosed Reindeer” with maybe a stop for an ice cream cone rank way up on the list. Allowing the young to pick out gifts for their siblings, parents, and friends is not only fun but also imparts an understanding about giving.

Oh, and we can never forget that wonderful Christmas music! The first time we hear it every season our hearts almost skip a beat as we change from a Ho Hum existence into a kind of holiday mode. We will not be the same until the last holiday cookie has “bit the dust”.

So, how does all of this relate to us? Instead of spending hours running around to find a “perfect” gift, make time to ensure that little Mary and Johnny engage in all of the experiences listed above. Some homes don’t even bake holiday cookies any more, what a terrible loss!

If we can spend 90% of our time doing these activities and only 10% shopping, we will give gifts that last a lifetime!

So check out that never-miss holiday gift catalog.

SCOUTING FOR HUNGER

Today with Clarendon Boy Scouts, Troop 59 working together with Holley Cub Scouts, Pack 62 to canvas the Clarendon/Holley area, the scouts collected and delivered 1133 pieces of food items to the Eastern Orleans County Community Center. This food will be used to fill the Thanksgiving Holiday food baskets for needy families in our area. The food was sorted by the scouts and is now ready for the baskets to be filled.

I would like to thank all Scouts, Scouters and parents that helped in this effort. It is greatly appreciated.

Husband takes the wife to her high school reunion. After meeting several of her friends and former school mates, they are sitting at a table where he is yawning and overly bored. The band cranks up and people are beginning to dance.

There's a guy on the dance floor living it large, break dancing, moon walking, back flips, buying drinks for people, the works.

Wife turns to her husband and says, "See that guy? Twenty-five years ago he proposed to me and I turned him down."

Husband says: "Looks like he's still celebrating!!!"

HOLLEY ELEMENTARY STUDENT COUNCIL HELPS COMMUNITY LIBRARY "RAISE THE ROOF"

During an afterschool meeting, the Holley Elementary School Student Council created coin collection containers to assist the Community Free Library in Holley raise funds to replace their roof. Larry Dabney, a retired Holley teacher who also serves on the library board, assisted the students in creating the containers. His grandson, Thomas Dobri, is also on the Student Council. Dabney expects that the fundraising will take quite a while. The students walked into the village and asked local businesses permission to leave a collection container for public donations. The containers have been placed in the following locations: Community Free Library, Village of Holley offices, Dr. Schiavone's practice, First Niagara bank, Sam's Diner, Heath & Martin, Nationwide office, Dr. Thompson's office, Kurtz's Car Care, Wiley's Ark Animal Care, Save-A-Lot food stores, Holley Pharmacy, and the Holley Post Office. Donations can be made at the library and collection containers can also be found at Holley Elementary.

Left to Right: Rachael Howard, Allyson Skehan, Makayla Famoly, Skyla Milazzo, Elise Quincey and Storm Boyce take their containers to village businesses to help collect donations for the library fund.

Geary (Moose) Shenck

GREETINGS TO EVERYONE. Boy, the time does go faster. I can't believe another month has come and gone. Oh well, here we go again!

I find autumn leaves are at their most beautiful when they're being raked by someone else. Dear Paranoid People who check behind their shower curtains for murders, If you find one, what's your plan? What's so crazy about asking for two Seeing Eye dogs? I wanted one for reading. Some more things old people say: If you're riding ahead of the herd, take a look back every now and then to make sure it's still there. It's true that you can't take it with you, but you can hide it where no one else can find it. Beware of strong drink. It can make you shoot at tax collectors and miss. Don't kick a man when he's down unless you're absolutely certain he won't get up. My memory's starting to go. Just about the only thing I still retain is water. I'm not sure I can walk all the way around the lake at my age. So if I get halfway around and feel too tired, I'll just come back. One of my friends told me he was hooked on brake fluid. I said, "Tom, that stuff can kill you." He said, "Not to worry I can stop any time." I dreamt last night I was a muffler. I woke up this morning exhausted. It is unfortunate we can't buy many business executives for what they are worth and sell them for what they think they are worth. (Malcom Forbes) There are no menial jobs, only menial attitudes. Greg said "I am the man of this house, so starting tomorrow I want you to have a hot delicious meal ready for me the second I walk through that door. Afterward, while watching sports on T.V. and relaxing in my chair, you'll bring me my slippers and then run my bath and when I'm done with my bath, guess who's going to dress me and comb my hair?" His wife answered, "The funeral director."

THIS MONTH'S RIDDLES:

1. What do you call a parade of rabbits hopping backwards?
2. With pointed fangs I sit and wait with piercing force I seize my bait, grabbing victims, chomping tight, physically joining with a single bite. What am I?
3. What lies at the bottom of the ocean and twitches?
4. How do they put out fires at the post office?
5. Why did the golfer yell at his caddy?

A funeral service is being held for a woman who has just passed away. At the end of the service, the pall bearers are carrying the casket out when they accidentally bump into a wall, jarring the casket. They hear a faint moan. They open the casket to find that the woman is actually alive. She lives for ten more years and then dies. A ceremony is again held at the same church and at the end of the ceremony the pall bearers are again carrying out the casket. As they are walking out of the church, the husband cries out, "Watch out for the wall." There are days when I wish I could wear a "Do not disturb" sign around my neck. And wouldn't it be great if we could put ourselves in the dryer for ten minutes and come out wrinkle free and three sizes smaller. I watch people and I wonder how some of them found their way out of the birth canal! "Vegetarian" is an old Indian word for bad hunter. You know having a Plan B can muddy up your Plan A. Man invented language to satisfy his deep need to complain. Radio Shack has stayed in business with a name combining something no one buys any more and a type of building no one wants to go into. The next best thing to being clever is being able to quote someone who is. I shave each morning in front of my car's passenger's side mirror. That way I get a closer shave than it actually appears. I'll never forget her trim silhouette as she stood on the beach at my side. I'll always recall her figure so tall as she gazed at the incoming tide. I can still see her there as I said, "Maiden Fair. Believe me you're the niftiest chic I ever saw!" I still count the stars and I still sport the scars and I still feel the sock on the jaw. Never go to a doctor whose office plants have died. A lady said, "I don't want to brag or make anybody jealous or anything but I can still fit into the earrings I wore in high school. I never understood the phrase back and forth. I mean don't you go forth first. So it should be forth and back. An old boy was telling his friends that he was getting married. They asked "Can she cook?" "No." "Is she pretty?" "Not really." "Is she wealthy?" "No." "Then why are you marrying her?" "She can drive at night." Love is an ocean of emotions entirely surrounded by expenses. His sleight of hand can quite confound you. While his bag of tricks will then astound you. Could he be a gifted rare magician? No. He's just a plain old politician.

They say that what Christopher Columbus really told Queen Isabella when he got home from his voyage to America was, "Well, I bet I'm the first man who every got nineteen hundred miles on a galleon." Naturally, I have to copy some stories to help fill the page. The following is from Laugh Lines: A young couple moves into a new neighborhood. The next morning while they were eating breakfast, the young woman sees her neighbor hanging her wash outside. "That laundry is not very clean" she said. "She doesn't know how to wash correctly; perhaps she needs better laundry soap." Her husband looked on but remained silent. Every time her neighbor would hang her wash to dry, the young woman would make the same comments. About a month later, the young woman was surprised to see nice, clean wash on the neighbors' line and said to her husband, "Look. She has learned how to wash correctly. I wonder who taught her how." The husband said, "I got up early this morning and cleaned our windows." And so it is with life. What we see when watching others depends on the purity of the window through which we look! English is a crazy language. "The bandage was wound around the wound." "The dump was so full we had to refuse the refuse." "Since there was no time like the present, he thought it was time to present the present." "I did not object to the object." "The buck does funny things when the does are around" "To help with planting, the farmer taught his sow to sow." "The insurance was invalid for the invalid." "I've learned that the best thing about growing older is that now I don't feel the need to impress anyone. I've also learned that if chewing gum has been dropped on the sidewalk within the past forty-eight hours, my shoes will find it and I hate to say that I've learned that I still have a lot to learn.

The Knowing by Catherine Janssen Irwin

It's knowing you are always there through each hurt and little care that keeps me on an even keel
when daily woes my calm could steal
It's knowing whether night or day close to home or far away that you support my hopes and dreams or at least, that's how it seems.
It's knowing you're my dearest friend
in your vigil without end Guiding me o'er troubled seas with a strong and steady breeze.
It's knowing that you'll always be in heart and soul, close to me until you guide me to that shore where pain and worries are no more.

Well It's time I guess to say Good-bye. The article is done and so am I!

Adios and God Bless
